

Frequently asked questions.

What is Salary Packaging?

Salary Packaging is an arrangement between you and your employer whereby you give up some of your income in return for benefits of a similar value.

This means you can pay for these benefit expenses (permitted by the Australian Taxation Office) with money set aside from your salary before it gets taxed.

By paying for workplace benefits with pre-tax dollars, you could reduce your taxable income and increase your disposable income. Your employer will offer a range of benefits you can access if you choose to salary package some of your regular wage.

What kind of workplace benefits can I package?

The most popular benefits you can package include superannuation, laptops (primarily for business use), cars and work related expenses.

Some employee groups, such as employees of hospitals or charities, can salary package can salary package their mortgage repayments, electricity and gas payments and meal entertainment.

Check your Employee Information Guide for the types of workplace benefits available. You can download a copy at maxxia-sagov.com.au.

How do I pay for benefits through Salary Packaging?

Your employer offers a range of workplace benefits administered by Maxxia.

After you sign-up with us, your payroll department sends your agreed pre-tax contribution to your Maxxia Salary Packaging account each time they pay you. They send the rest of your pay to your nominated bank account as usual. PAYG tax is applied to this portion of your salary.

We then use your pre-tax dollars from your Maxxia Salary Packaging account to pay for your chosen benefits according to your instructions.

What does Salary Packaging cost?

We look after your Salary Packaging for a small fee which is paid out of your pre-tax dollars.

Check your Employee Information Guide for details about fees.

Are Maxxia's administration fees salary packaged?

Yes, all fees involved can be salary packaged. Salary Packaging fees do not contribute towards any applicable capping threshold and do not attract Fringe Benefit Tax (FBT).

What happens to the balance in my Salary Packaging account at the end of FBT year?

Normally the balance will remain in your salary packaging account until you tell us what you would like to do with the left over money. Please refer to your employer's Salary Packaging policy for specific guidance.

How do I change my Salary Packaging arrangements?

Sometimes as your circumstances change, you may like to add a new benefit, adjust a contribution amount, payment date or just update your phone number. When you need to update your account select from the following:

What happens if I leave my place of employment?

You must let us know four weeks before you leave your employer.

Just call us or email info@maxxia.com.au a month before you cease employment and we will do the rest.

We will reconcile your account to ensure that any surplus or deficit is accounted for, and the correct Fringe Benefit Tax has been calculated and properly charged. Any surplus funds will be returned to your employer and treated as taxable income.

What happens if I go on leave of absence?

You must let us know four weeks prior to your leave of absence.

Salary Packaging arrangements continue during periods of leave. If you wish to suspend or reduce your Salary Packaging arrangements you should notify us.

What does employer FBT status mean?

Your employer FBT status is a ruling determined by the FBT Act and confirmed by the ATO, that allows some organisations a concession or exemption from FBT.

What does capping threshold mean?

Depending on your employer's FBT status, you may be eligible for an exemption on FBT up to a certain limit – this is known as your capping threshold.

The value of your FBT exemption is reset each FBT year. Any residual amount you are eligible for does not carry over to the following FBT year.

Please consult your Employee Information Guide to find out your capping threshold as the FBT value amount varies from between a grossed-up value of $17,000 or $30,000, based on your employer's FBT status. These are as follows:

1. Hospitals (cap limit of $9,010);
2. Charities or not-for-profit (cap limit of $15,900);
3. Independent schools and associations (Rebatable FBT);
4. Public schools, Government departments and private companies (Full FBT).

If you work for SA Health or the Legal Services Commission, you may also be eligible to salary package the meal entertainment benefit. This benefit is over and above the capping threshold and is subject to an annual cap limit of $2,650 per FBT year.

What happens if I commence salary packaging halfway through the FBT year?

If you are Salary Packaging benefits that do not attract FBT, such as superannuation contributions or professional memberships, there is no impact on your arrangements.

If you are Salary Packaging benefits under a capping threshold, you may be able to increase (accelerate) your fortnightly contributions for the remainder of the FBT year to make sure you maximise your tax savings. This will depend on your employer's salary packaging policy.

What does accelerating mean?

If you are entitled to a capping threshold and commence Salary Packaging midway through the FBT year, you may be able to increase your fortnightly contributions for the remainder of the FBT year to maximise the full threshold.
